

an odyssey christmas

Do you ever get tired of the usual corporate approach to Christmas? Snow scenes from foreign lands with animated writing perhaps? A quiet mention that Christmas Cards won't be issued this year but here's a link to an electronic somethingorother?

Well, this year at Odyssey we're doing something a bit different!

We're delighted to announce the results of our Christmas Card competition 2021. Yes, we held a competition! No, we didn't sit around spending a day designing Christmas cards and deciding whose was best. None of us can draw. So, we went to some proper artists and asked them to assist.

This year, we're absolutely thrilled that the pupils at Deri Primary School helped us out by designing us the very best in cards that (we think) you'll see in the corporate world. Out of all the cards we received, there were two winners, and two runners up – one for the 'infants' and one for the 'juniors'.

Yes, I realise that they've put the kids into Key Stages these days, but I prefer the old currency...

For our part, those winners and runners up each had a gift voucher from us all here, and we also were very pleased to make a contribution to school funds to replenish all those art supplies that had been used up.

Now, really bucking the trend, these cards should be making their way out to the wider world which, we hope, will make people smile a little. We appreciate it's not usually the done thing, but there's nothing quite like spreading a bit of good cheer.

We haven't forgotten the environment. We've made sure that the paper and card we're using is sustainably sourced, environmentally sound, and recyclable. What's more we've used a local business to help us out. We think that's also worth doing.
